1950 CATALOG

Spring, 1950

Dear Folks:

First, thank you all for your co-operation in making 1949 a most interesting and satisfying year for us. Not only for your orders, which were most welcome, but for your nice letters and comments, which were greatly appreciated. And even for your catalog requests, even though orders did not always follow. Half of the fun in this business is in getting acquainted with new garden lovers each year, and I hope you felt when you received the catalog last year that you had gained a new friend. I know I did when sending them.

Second, I shall be honest this year. This is the only catalog I intend to issue in 1950. For the past two years, I have expected to send them out both Spring and Fall, only to find that when I should have been working on the Fall issue, I was too busy in the garden to get it assembled. Then, too, most of the information is duplicated and of course, they do cost money.

So -- our 1950 catalog is a little larger, our stocks of both Peonies and Iris are more completely described, and a little more general information is included. Several new varieties, both of Iris and peonies are listed, including recent Iris introductions of W. H. Ryle of Kirksville, and C. H. Lewis of Kansas City. We are proud of our Midwestern hybridizers, and feel that they and their introductions should be better known. Their seedlings have been raised in an area of extreme climatic differences, and as a consequence, hardiness, color stability and weather resistance are outstanding virtues of these Iris.

One of the latest of our local hybridizers to be heard from is Byron Grebe, of Rockport, Mo. Not that he is exactly a novice, but unfortunately for his Iris progeny, World War II called him away just as he was developing some very promising seedlings. Now that he has returned to engage in Veteran's Vocational Training at Hamburg, Iowa (just across the state line from Rockport), he has taken up where he left off in growing fine Iris. We are happy to introduce one of his pre-war originations, BRIDE'S DELIGHT, which is described on the next page.

In our gardens this year, we are also showing a trial group of Hemerocallis. While the quantity and selection is too small to list, we plan to expand next year if interest seems to warrant it. In addition, we are growing seed of both Hemerocallis and hybrid Lilies of Mrs. John Aldrich, whom many of you will remember as being quite active in Iris just a few years back. Mrs. Aldrich is considered one of our best local authorities on Lilies, and has already produced some outstanding Hems. We feel confident in predicting some fine introductions from the current crop of seedlings.

As you may know, Sioux City, Iowa is the location of the American Iris Society's annual meeting this year, beginning May 28. The Greater Kansas City Iris Society will have an outstanding show in the Municipal Auditorium May 13 and 14. Why not arrange your vacation to take in both events? Your time will be well spent, and we will enjoy meeting you.

Sincerely yours

Bertha and Allen Harper

IRIS INTRODUCTIONS FOR 1950

BRIDE'S DELIGHT (B. Grebe 1948) TB-M-WW 38"

This clear, smooth white is characterized by imposing dignity. A large, well formed flower on a tall, erect, heavy stem, it commands attention at once. A light lemon beard and a dusting of sulfur at the haft relieve an otherwise perfect monotone. The standards are broad, round and snugly domed, the falls wide with just a hint of flare. Stem is not widely branched, but the six or seven flowers are perfectly spaced. BRIDE'S DELIGHT first took our eye at the St. Joseph, Missouri Iris Show in 1937, and its consistent fine performance since has justified our high enthusiasm.

INTRODUCTIONS OF 1949

ROSEMOHR (C. H. Lewis 1948) TB-L-B7M 38" (Ormoehr x Red Valor)

A second generation Mohr hybrid, this gorgeous light mulberry self is practically free of the veining characteristic of most of the Wm. Mohr progeny. The flower is large, the standards are broadly domed, with falls softly flaring, and the entire flower is gently ruffled. A dense yellow beard gives a rich golden glow at the crests. The stem is erect, heavy and widely branched. In soft light, an opalescent sheen covers the falls, adding to ROSEMOHR'S enchantment. Of heavy substance, blooms will stand wind, rain and bright sun for days, and while rhizomes are somewhat slow of increase, they are hardy anywhere. A good seed and pollen parent, from which Mr. Lewis has some fine new seedlings which will be ready in 1951.

Stock still limited, per rhizome

KANSAS CREAM (C. H. Lewis 1947) TB-EM-W4 36" (Crystal Beauty x California Gold)

The Iris lists are still short of good cream colored Iris. This has been unfortunate, as no color lends itself quite so well to blending and toning down other bright colors. In Kansas Cream, you may provide this relief with a hardy, vigorous grower, which offers abundant flowering and fast increase. A light creamy yellow self, with edges of falls faintly deeper than centers, and of medium height, it offers an excellent foil for pinks and blues, or will show a mass of soft, luminescent, creamy yellow when grown as an accent clump. Because of its rapid increase, and an ample original stock, we can offer KANSAS CREAM this year at a very reasonable price.

In listing IRIS we have used the following order of description: NAME - (Originator and Introduction Date) - Season of bloom - Height - General Description - # position in 1949 Symposium (or last year in which it gained Symposium rating) - price per rhizome.

The initials - E - EM - M - ML - L - VL - indicate Early; Early Midseason; Midseason; Late Midseason; Late and Very Late, respectively. In this area, based on last season's bloom, which was about normal, Tall Bearded varieties started blooming about May 5, and the last bloom (on Sultan's Robe) opened June 2. We are making a careful check on the blooming time and average height in our own gardens, as very often these factors differ widely in various sections of the country, and we believe that you will be more interested in what a variety does here under average growing conditions than at its point of origin, where weather conditions may have been entirely different, and where it undoubtedly received special care from its originator.

P E O N I E S

Choice selections from growers here and abroad.

Our selection of Peonies is listed as follows: First, we have used the customary color descriptions of the larger Peony Shows; White, Blush, Light Pink, Medium Pink, Dark Pink and Red, listing Doubles alphabetically in each color class. The single and Jap Peonies are listed together in alphabetical order. The order of description is: NAME (Originator - date of Introduction) - American Peony Society Rating, 10.0 being perfect score - general description - season of bloom - price per division. As far as possible, color and performance reports are made from inspection in our own fields, and may differ somewhat from other lists, particularly those of Northern growers. See pages 13 and 14 for order blank and terms of sale.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF SALE

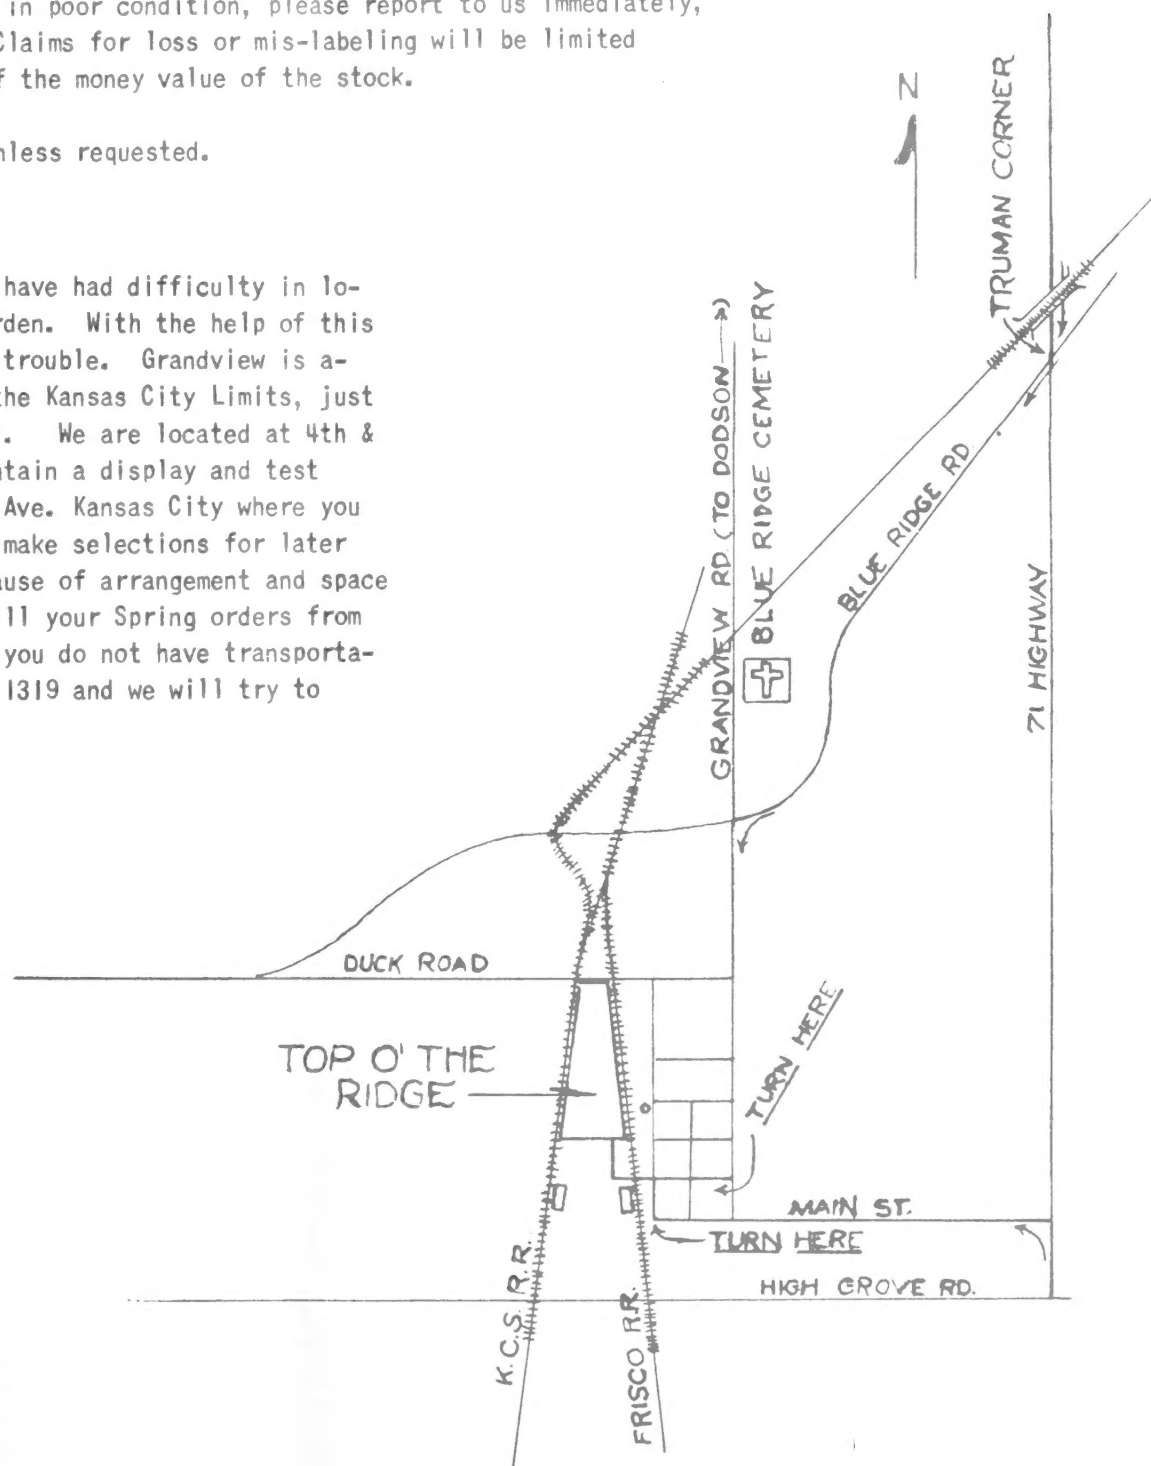

IRIS are in the best condition for replanting during July and August. All orders will be filled in order of receipt, beginning July 1, unless otherwise specified on order. Shipments will not be made during blooming season nor after October 1 except at buyer's entire risk. All rhizomes furnished will be good sized healthy divisions, and guaranteed true to name.

PEONIES are offered for Fall delivery only, beginning September 1, but will not be guaranteed if shipped after November 15. One year old field grown roots with 4 or more eyes will be furnished, guaranteed true to name, healthy and viable. Most Peonies, when planted properly, can be expected to bloom the next Spring, but because of varying soil and growth conditions, this cannot be guaranteed.

GENERAL CONDITIONS: Terms are cash with order for all stock. All orders of $2.50 value or over shipped charges prepaid. For smaller orders, add 10% for postage and handling. If plants arrive in poor condition, please report to us immediately, and we will replace promptly. Claims for loss or mis-labeling will be limited only to replacement or refund of the money value of the stock.

No substitutions will be made unless requested.

Several of my customers have had difficulty in locating the Grandview garden. With the help of this map, you should have no trouble. Grandview is about 10 miles South of the Kansas City Limits, just west of U. S. Highway 71. We are located at 4th & Jones Ave. We also maintain a display and test garden at 7300 Brooklyn Ave. Kansas City where you are welcome to visit or make selections for later delivery. However, because of arrangement and space limitations we cannot fill your Spring orders from the display garden. If you do not have transportation, call us at Hlland 1319 and we will try to arrange it for you.
